Part 2:

The email notifying you of the outcome of your endorsement application will set out the reason or reasons you were unsuccessful. If you think that your application was incorrectly processed or that the endorsing body did not apply its criteria correctly, you should enter the reason for non-endorsement in the first box and in the second box state where you think the error was made. Where you think more than one error was made, repeat the process, selecting a new box each time. Please keep your explanations brief and concise in order to maximise the use of the space provided.

Do not repeat the same reason for non-endorsement in 2 separate reason boxes. Summarise why you feel an error was made based on that one reason and set out what evidence you provided in support of this with your original application. Proceed to the next text box if there is another reason for non-endorsement.

If you wish to reference paragraphs of the Immigration Rules, please refrain from copying these into your explanations in their entirety. Please instead state the paragraph number and sub-section if relevant.

Awards- not met

Evidence Eight: The British Art Prize operates on an open-call basis, whereby anyone can enter. The shortlist and People's Choice Awards are decided by a public vote, whereby anybody can vote rather than a verifiable jury of known arts experts. We therefore cannot accept this as being an appropriate international award for artistic excellence for Global Talent.

Evidence Nine and 10: no information has been provided for the Indian Art Contest and Indian Art Fest. The websites do not provide details of the selection process or jury members and therefore there is no verifiable jury of known arts experts. On the 'Medal and Certificate' page of the Indian Art Contest website, it appears that "winners" have to purchase physical prizes. The same applies to Indian Art Fest where there are no details on benefits to winning/shortlisted artists other than exposure. Indian Art Fest operates "weekly and monthly" competitions with entry fees payable each time. It also appears that e-certificates must be purchased in addition to physical "prizes". Both take place in the form of an online competition. We therefore cannot accept either as being an appropriate international award for artistic excellence for Global Talent.

2.1(b) Please state in brief terms how you meet the requirement or requirements referred to in 2.1(a) and what evidence you provided with your original application to support this:

The assessment incorrectly concluded that the British Art Prize shortlist was decided by a public vote. The attached document (8 Proof_Of_Award_1_British_Art_Prize.pdf) clearly mentions, via an official email from Parker Harris (a renowned agency in the UK), that my painting was shortlisted for the British Art Prize against thousands of entries. An internationally renowned jury of 5 members juried it: Adebajji Alade (President of the Royal Institute of Oil Painters), Alvaro Castagnet (Renowned Watercolour Master Artist), Dr. Amy Orrock, Tiffany Panter (Co-founder of Panter & Hall gallery), and Niki Browes (Editor of Artists & Illustrators). It is not a public vote at all; rather, the shortlist was selected for artistic excellence against 2,900 entries. The confusion likely arose because shortlisted artworks are automatically eligible for the People's Choice Award (1 of 5 awards for the British Art Prize) after they are selected.

The assessor also mentioned the prize operates on an open-call basis, but this is not just a standard open-call without any benefit to the winner, without a jury, or without transparency of selection criteria. It is one of the UK's topmost and most respected competitions, run by the UK's longest-running magazine, Artists & Illustrators. It provides a physical exhibition at the Oxo Gallery, national coverage, an online exhibition, and a £10,000 prize fund to the shortlist and winners (as mentioned in the document). Most of the UK's famous art competitions, like the BP Portrait Award and the John Moores Painting Prize, operate on an open-call basis but maintain a high bar of selection by a renowned jury. I request that you reconsider the evidence, as my achievement was awarded for artistic excellence.

The engagements on the CV within at last the last 3 years do not demonstrate a sufficient professional track record for Global Talent. There are activities that fall under ineligible discipline as listed on page eight (Supported Disciplines) of the Arts Council's guidance for Global Talent, such as Brand Ambassador – Menorah Stationery which relates to art and creative direction for marketing campaigns, advertising or branding. As listed on page seven (Proof of Appearances), art fairs would not be considered as artistic engagements for Global Talent. Online exhibitions do not constitute participation in a professional artistic program of work other than in extenuating circumstances, such as those occurring during the COVID-19 pandemic. They do not have a physical location, date or time and therefore do not provide the physical proof of participation that we require. Other engagements such as "The Base, Greenham, supported by Arts Council of England" do not provide sufficient details in relation to the applicant's role. The below has not therefore been satisfied:

Your CV/resumé will help us understand what stage of your career you are at and whether this is appropriate for the Global Talent visa. For Exceptional Talent we would expect to see a substantial professional track record on your CV from at least the last five years, and for Exceptional Promise from at least the last three years

2.2(b) Please state in brief terms how you meet the requirement or requirements referred to in 2.2(a) and what evidence you provided with your original application to support this:

Grounds for Review: Factual Error Regarding CV and Professional Record

1. Shortlisted for the Curated Exhibition at "The Base"

The assessment mistakenly didn't see the relation as my painting "Sunny Day Manhattan" was shortlisted for exhibition at The Base 2025, supported by Arts Council of England. This was not an open-entry event; my artwork was rigorously evaluated and specifically chosen by a professional curatorial panel, establishing clear, vetted professional recognition.

2. Online Exhibition:

British Art Prize online exhibition was discarded by just saying online exhibition. It's a curated exhibition and a benefit given to all top 50 paintings shortlisted for British Art Prize 2025(UK's one of top art award which is heavily judged by international art expert) and available online during the month of Physical exhibition (November 2025-December End).

3. Quantitative Error in Assessing the Timeline (2022–Feb 2026)

By incorrectly isolating the art fairs, the assessment concluded a deficit in the three-year requirement. However, even if those specific items(Art Fairs and British Art Prize Online exhibition) are entirely excluded from consideration, the remaining undisputed evidence proves an unbroken professional track record spanning 2022 to 2026:

Continuous Exhibitions in curated show like RGA, Oxo Gallery, and The Base; Gallery Representation, & Commercial Sales (2022–2026) to direct client, Saatchi gallery; my curated membership in Reading Guild Of Artists and Wokingham Art Society; Merit-based articles in newspaper like Henley Standard, my step-by-step demonstration in Artists and Illustration Magazine and curated articles in other magazines.

The evaluation improperly paused the timeline calculation. The chronological span of these solo shows, gallery representation, curated exhibitions, institutional memberships, and merit-based media publications definitively exceeds 36 months of continuous, high-level professional practice in the visual arts sector.

2.3(a) Enter the reason for non-endorsement as shown on your decision letter:

In all three letters, the following has not been provided in sufficient detail: all letters must provide specific details about how you would benefit from living in the UK – i.e., what networks would you have access to in the UK that you would not have access to outside of it? It is a requirement to explain UK-specific opportunities/relationships the applicant could gain from if endorsed to work in their specialist area of practice.

In Letters 2 and 3, the following has not been provided in sufficient detail: all letters must tell us about your past achievements in your specialist area of practice. In addition to this, neither include a sufficient CV or bio from the author. As stated in the Arts Council's guidance for Global Talent: all letters must include the author's CV or biography to demonstrate their experience and expertise.

2.3(b) Please state in brief terms how you meet the requirement or requirements referred to in 2.3(a) and what evidence you provided with your original application to support this:

I politely request a reassessment as these exact same letters were previously evaluated and accepted as meeting the criteria in my prior application (October 2025 Ref: 1212-0001-5441-8163/URN2025ACBF1018). The current assessment overlooks explicit evidence already present in the documents:

Explicit Proof of UK-Specific Benefits:

The assessor stated details on UK-specific benefits were insufficient. However, the letters unequivocally detail activities requiring a physical UK presence. Letter 1 explicitly states my intent to “take part in national societies like the RWS and RI,” alongside plans to physically “run workshops” and “engage with local artists.” Letter 2 specifically cites “mentoring younger artists, and collaborating with other British galleries and collectives.” Letter 3 proves my physical community integration by highlighting I have “volunteered his time to steward exhibitions, speak with visitors, and share insights.”

Clear Validation of Past Achievements:

The decision stated past achievements were not provided. However, Letter 2 clearly validates my past body of work as demonstrating “sales of three paintings through gallery,” my ability to “merge architecture with atmospheric expression,” and how “audiences respond to my distinctive style of paintings.” Letter 3 explicitly lists the sale of “four original works” and formally recognises my “growing track record of exhibitions, media coverage, and professional activity.”

Strict Compliance with CV/Biography Rules:

The letters fully satisfy the author biography requirement. Letter 2 establishes the author’s credentials as a “gallery owner” and “professional practising artist with over 20 years of experience” with an international exhibition record across the “UK, USA, Barcelona, Taiwan, and Hong Kong.” Letter 3 confirms its institutional authority as an “established and respected visual arts organisation, founded in 1953 and its official Charity Number (268947).”

Request to refer Recommendation Letter1, Letter2 and Letter3 for all details.
